"Do remember while the gone days,
that we mattered 'bout our old ways.
n that through prosper or scarcity,
we've all now made what's this city.

...

As much as new, with time decays,
as such we grew, here or away.
(I)t ain't like we aren't electricity,
we're part of the current of this city.

That's important, what each would say.
What can or can't, together we may
discuss our issues, in security,
share visions of me and yous, in our city."
